Set Your Thermostat, Then Leave It Alone

JAN 20 2015

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Here's a great way to save if you heat with an electric heat pump:
leave your thermostat alone.

If you move your thermostat down at night, expensive auxiliary/emergency heat will come on the next morning if you move the thermostat up more than 2 degrees.

It's better to set the thermostat around 68 degrees, and leave it alone. The auxiliary heat costs three times more than average heat pump costs. And those costs add up fast.
